Performance Calculations

Performance calculations are blithely offers as if they were the final and single result of a stock's or portfolio's gain over an arbitrary time period. Alas, there are many variables that may not be obvious but ought to be carefully considered for a more accurate accounting.

Tax considerations are usually important to most investors but are rarely notes in “total return performance” percentages. One portfolio gains 20% a year but “turns over” 100% each year generating short-term gains taxed at high rates of 39% or more. Another portfolio holds shares for several years, so most of its returns are long term capital gains taxed at 20%.

Year after year, the long-term portfolio’s gains are taxed less frequently and at lower rates so there is more after-tax capital gains remaining to reinvest, resulting in a significantly higher after-tax return, even though each portfolio showed 20% appreciation each year. Also, there are fewer trading costs taking their toll on gains.
